THIS WEEK'S HIGHLIGHT

Helping with Habitat

For every house is built by someone, but the builder of all things is God. — Hebrews 3:4

Our deacons have chosen Habitat for Humanity as one of our community outreach ministries for this year. We will be part of a four-church build with Thrivent Financial for Hardis Kingombe, his wife Kisenda Miezi, and their three young children. Hardis and Kisenda are natives of Kinshasa, DRC. They fled their country to come to the U.S. in 2011 to escape the brutal conditions and provide a future for their family. Hardis was an attorney in Kinshasa. He works as an Uber driver here.

The family applied to the Matthews Habitat project so that they might have an affordable home of their own in a safer place. Following the rigorous application process, Hardis and Kisenda were approved to become homeowners. Their contribution toward the construction cost of the house includes considerable sweat equity as build volunteers. They have welcomed that opportunity and look forward to becoming members of the Matthews community.

The churches working with us as builders are our neighbors at Matthews Methodist, Cross & Crown Lutheran, and Sardis Presbyterian. The dates we will serve are expected to be Saturdays, August 5, September 16 and October 21.

Next week, we will have an insert in our worship folder with more details on work site opportunities as well as helping to make sandwiches for site teams. To volunteer now or get more information this week, please contact Karen Chambers in Outreach and Missions at 704-814-1061 or kchambers@christcovenant.org.
